

THE FRIENDS WITH FOUR KEYS

THE SPINE, v1.4

2026-08-30. Pipeline step 1, step 1b with the recipient column, and step 2. Written against premise v8 (closed to premise attack), the five v1.2, and the Four Keys rulings in memory. No prose. Nothing in this document reaches Fable except Part G.

v1.1, same day: all eight rulings in Part E taken by Stephen. Seven went the way the spine asked. Ruling 8 went a different and better way: Brad does not live under a dead infant's record, he lives under the genuine name of a man he killed three years before Violet, whose body was never found and whose file is low risk with no sample under R16. That adds one node (the lodger, the skipper who reported him, the constable who called) to Parts A, B and C, and it changes "who Brad is": Violet was not his first. The sweep was re-run on the new node and still passes. Δ Premise v8's "Who Brad is" and the settled line "documents never his" now need a one-line update; that is Stephen's document and is flagged, not edited.

Status: the sweep PASSES on one named character lock. No person's earliest competent action ends the episode before its planned turn except by Margo's choice: from Day 19 she holds the fact that breaks the letter and keeps it for six weeks (C5, the load-bearing refusal). Ruby's open route to Del from Day 27 is computed and does not deliver.

Two objects chosen here (Part D). X, what Violet hid, is a gilded alphabet panel Brad made in a hand he had never shown anyone, signed with a mark that is not his name. The decoy is the boat name board from her hall, Liam's gift from the yard, taken by Brad on Day 0 from the one place none of the four had been in the nineteen days before she died. Fable's brush, sable on an oar handle, fails three of the seven constraints as X and fails as decoy because the whole town saw her use it until the day she died; it stays as texture.

v1.2, same evening: ChatGPT's step-3 attack returned REWORK with ten findings. Eight accepted and repaired here, one answered from the ledger (7), one contested and then closed by a new ruling, R27, that a canvass of a document's finding place needs a tampering hypothesis (5). Findings and disposition: four-keys-spine-attack-chatgpt-2026-08-30.md. The two repairs that matter: the decoy changed (finding 1) and the lodger's file no longer names Brad's flat and no document carries Brad's face (finding 4). Weekdays corrected (finding 2). The sweep still passes.

v1.3, same night: round two returned REWORK with ten findings. Findings and disposition: four-keys-spine-attack-chatgpt-round2-2026-08-30.md. The one that mattered: Margo's earliest route to Del fell inside the loading-bay tape's thirty-one days, so her choosing not to go was the only thing between Brad and the camera. Her turn now falls on Day 51, after both tapes have expired (Days 47 and 49), which is the world's order under R7 and not the plot's; the vanish and everything to the landlord's clearance move seven days. Also: the board leaves the house in a rucksack, so No. 14 sees nothing in the man's hands and no tampering hypothesis ever forms; Tessa is found on the Saturday from a card in Margo's drawer; the skipper had a first name and a trade and was never asked. Four of the ten were my own inconsistencies from the v1.2 repairs, now fixed. The sweep still passes.

v1.4, 31 August: round three, the last before prose, returned REWORK with four findings. Findings and disposition: four-keys-spine-attack-chatgpt-round3-2026-08-31.md. The one that mattered: Margo holds the money fact from Day -1450, so the contradiction is hers on Day 19 and the Day 51 file check was a device. The spine now says what is true: she sees it on Day 19 and keeps it for six weeks, and that refusal is the load-bearing lock of the episode, character-supplied, with three world-supplied reasons written into C5. The loading-bay camera never covered the corridor door and is removed as a route; the fishmonger remains, and would name Brad within a fortnight of any allegation. Del holds a private hypothesis from Day 292 that she cannot act on. The landlady's two routes are both computed and both end in the same cell. The sweep passes on that lock and the spine says so in one sentence: if a reader does not believe Margo would keep a dead friend's confidence about undeclared money, the episode fails there and nowhere else.

Decided here, from v8's open list: the motive (the money, below) · the cupboard (Violet's storage cage, Bay 4, the back corridor of the fish market) · the meeting room (Ruby's kitchen) · the cliff (Kestrel Head, the drop beyond Kestrel Point Lighthouse at the end of Kestrel Road; canon landmark, cliff not yet built) · the source of Violet's money (her mother's cash, taken from the house the week she died, told only to Margo) · the span (Day 0 to Day 333, with Brad's first preparation at Day -900) · which survivor comes to Ally (Ruby first, Liam by episode four) · neither survivor is anything to Ally already.

THE GRAPH, IN ONE TABLE

The whole truth, once, so every later part can be checked against it. Everything below is known in full only to Brad.

What actually happened	Day
A deckhand who lives aboard his skipper's boat drinks at Brad's flat and keeps a dry bag there. No family, nobody who would look. After a night's drinking at the flat, Brad walks him to Kestrel Head and pushes him. The body is never found. The skipper reports him when he misses a sailing; the file names the boat as his address and never names Brad. Low risk, no sample (R16). The bag, with his papers, is Brad's.	-1500 to -1090
Brad builds the exit on the dead man's genuine name and puts his own face on nothing: no licence renewal, no bank, no register. A room paid in cash, a workshop paid in cash, a prepaid. The name is inert on every system from Day -1090. No accomplice, no seller.	-900 to -500
He hollows the trade: cash where offered, declared turnover falling year on year. The pub that changes its name every spring pays him cash at his request.	-850 onward
He rents a room 400 miles away, cash, quarterly in advance, as a lodger in a widow's house. Weekend absences begin, told as customers up the coast.	-400
He makes the panel on Tuesday nights at Violet's bench after she has gone, and keeps it in the roof space over her paint racks, because his flat and van must stay clean.	-380 to -80
Violet tells Margo she is calling in what she is owed, for the lawyer in the fight with her sister. The largest debt is Brad's: the van and first stock, cash, no paper, from Day -2000. She tells Brad on Day -110.	-120
Brad decides she dies before he goes. From inside: a debt follows a man who moves and not a man who dies; a man who dies needs a grief; hers is the one grief that makes his vanish read true; and she has never cost him anything he valued.	-110
A roof leak. Violet finds the wrapped panel above the racks. She carries it round town for a month asking whose hand. Brad hears from the café on Day -40.	-75
The ladder. Brad undoes the foot bolt of the Regent ladder the night before; she falls from the third rung; hip; Ruby treats it at the surgery. Violet finds the bolt undone, not sheared, and tells nobody.	-45
Violet changes the cage padlock, has four keys cut on Lantern Street, writes five letters, hides panel and letter in the cage, lodges four envelopes with her solicitor: post after my funeral.	-20 to -18
Brad walks to Mariner's Row about the money. She goes up for the debt book. The stairs. He waits twenty minutes, takes the book, leaves by the back lane.	0

What actually happened	Day
Accident. The four keys. Brad reads the cage on Day 16, writes at her bench on Day 17, swaps on Day 18. The panel leaves with him on Day 60 in a bag hidden at the ridge wall.	1 to 53
He contacts Margo from a cash prepaid on the channel she uses for Tessa, walks 19 miles in from the inland halt on Day 214, and pushes her from the point. Her phone and his prepaid go into the sea.	180 to 215
Ally arrives after the front page. Her listeners find the pieces. The panel is described on air on Day 325 and is gone from his wall by Day 326. His landlady writes that night. The reference sample taken to identify his body identifies him alive.	266 to 333

A. THE CLOCK

Day 0 is the Monday Violet dies. Negative days precede it. Times are given where they matter. Weeks in Part C: Week 1 = Days 0 to 6.

A1. Before

Day	Event	Who knows
−2000	Violet lends Brad the van and first stock from the tin. No paper. She asks Margo whether a loan needs paper; Margo says yes; Violet does not.	Violet, Brad, Margo
−1500	Violet's mother dies; Liam drives them in the last night. Violet clears the house first and takes the cash her mother kept. The sister does not know.	Violet; Liam knows the night, not the cash
−1450	Violet asks Margo whether cash from her mother is taxable. Margo notes it in her own file. This is the only record of where the money came from.	Violet, Margo
−1200	The sister moves to sell the house. The dispute begins. Violet instructs a solicitor on Civic Row.	Violet, sister, solicitor, later all four
−1800 →	Brad practises Violet's cursive on Tuesday nights at her bench from her job notes, and burns the sheets. A private exercise nobody sees.	Brad
−1500	A deckhand, about Brad's age, who lives aboard his skipper's boat, starts drinking at Brad's flat and keeps a dry bag there with his papers. No family.	Brad; the skipper knows he drinks "at a mate's" and not whose
−1100	A bottle at the flat, two men, nobody else. Brad walks him to Kestrel Head and pushes him. No body. The bag stays at the flat.	Brad
−1090	The skipper reports him missing when he misses a sailing. Last address: the boat. Enquiries: the harbour master, the pub (he was not there that night). Adult, itinerant, no dependants: low risk, closed as drifted. No sample (R16). Brad's name is nowhere on the file.	HCPD file (Harbor Ward), skipper
−900 → −500	The exit, on the dead man's name, with Brad's face on nothing: the genuine passport and birth certificate in a drawer, never presented; a room and a workshop paid in cash; a prepaid.	Brad
−850 →	Cash where offered. The pub landlord pays cash from Day −700 at Brad's request. Declared turnover falls.	Brad; the pub landlord; Margo sees the pub's side of it
−600	Violet notices Margo has a Sunday, and a green app she checks at the slip. She says so to Brad, the only one she talks to about the other three.	Violet, Brad
−400	Brad rents the room, cash, quarterly, as a lodger. Weekend absences begin.	Brad; the landlady knows a lodger under the other name

Day	Event	Who knows
-380 → -80	The panel, Tuesday nights at Violet's bench after she leaves, kept in the roof space over the racks.	Brad
-250	Brad runs a marathon in another city under three hours and tells the four it was a wedding.	Brad; Ruby sees the result page on Day -200 and says nothing
-200	In the crane cab Brad asks Liam what the yard would give for the van, cash, spring maybe.	Brad, Liam
-120	Violet tells Margo she is calling in what she is owed. The list, in Violet's hand, names Brad and the sum.	Violet, Margo
-110	Violet tells Brad. Brad decides.	Violet, Brad
-75	The leak. Violet finds the panel.	Violet
-70 → -40	Violet shows the panel to the cinema owner, the café, two other signwriters on the coast: whose hand is this.	Those four people; Brad from the café on Day -40
-46 night	Brad, with his unit key, undoes the foot bolt on the Regent ladder.	Brad
-45	Violet falls from the third rung onto the cobbles. Hip. Ruby treats her at Wharf Street and records a fall from a ladder. Violet finds the bolt undone.	Violet, Ruby (the fall only)
-20	New padlock on Cage 4. Four keys cut at the locksmith on Lantern Street; his book records four copies, that date.	Violet, locksmith
-19	Violet writes four key letters and one cage letter, hides panel and letter in the cage.	Violet
-18	She lodges four sealed envelopes with the solicitor: post these after my funeral. He asks; she makes a joke about her sister.	Violet, solicitor
-18 → -1	Nothing visible. Tuesday visits, the slip, the receipts bag.

A2. The death and the keys

Day	Time	Event
0 Mon	21:30	Brad walks to Mariner's Row, phone left at his flat. She lets him in. The money.
0	21:55	She goes up for the debt book. He follows. The landing, the light off. One push.
0	22:20	She stops breathing at the foot of the stairs. He has not touched her again. He takes the book, and the boat name board off its hook in the hall, into the rucksack he brought for the book.
0	22:30	Out by the back door, latched behind him. The neighbour at N ^o 14 sees a man's back in the lane, nothing in his hands, and thinks nothing.
1 Tue	06:00	Ruby's text, then Ruby's car at the slip. No Violet. Ruby assumes the Regent ladder, early.
1	12:30	Liam at the unit. Shut.
1	13:10	Liam at the house with the spare key. Finds her. 13:14 he rings it in.
1	14:00	Uniform, then the Harbor Ward sergeant (Del) at a sudden death: unwitnessed, head injury, foot of the stairs, front locked, back latched, no disturbance, two glasses of wine on the side. Coroner's officer informed. Door-knock: N ^o 14 saw her Monday morning, and a man's back in the lane about half ten, a dark coat, nothing in his hands. Noted: unidentified male, lane, approx 22:30. Nothing to identify him against. Scene photographs include the hall: an empty hook and a pale rectangle on the wall, consistent with the survivors' later account that she took the board down herself to hide it.
2		Liam into the unit, heater off, finds the tin. Rings the sister. Ruby reads Violet's record at the surgery: the ladder fall.

Day	Time	Event
3		Post-mortem (Cortez): skull fracture and brain injury consistent with a fall down a domestic stair; healed bruising to the hip; blood alcohol modest. GP record shows a fall six weeks earlier.
5		The sister arrives. Liam hands her the tin in front of Ruby and Margo. All four now know of the tin.
6		Coroner opens and adjourns. Body released.
11 Fri		Funeral. The wake photograph: the four together.
12 Sat		The solicitor posts four envelopes.
14 Mon		Four keys and four letters arrive. The letter says: I think one of you is planning to kill me, I do not know which, I may be wrong, do not go to the police and here is why, what I found is behind this door, only the four of you can read it. Cage 4 is named. They ring each other that night and agree Saturday.
16 Wed	05:40	Brad at Cage 4, market hours, van on the street, the corridor door round the side by the units where no camera looks. Reads the cage letter, takes it and the panel. The fishmonger at Bay 3 says early for you.
17 Thu	night	Brad at Violet's bench with his unit key. Her layout paper, her pen. He writes it there, where practice sheets in her style are invisible among her own, with the debt book open beside him for her cursive. Burns the drafts and the book in his sink. Puts the pen back.
18 Fri	05:30	Brad places the letter and the name board in Cage 4.
19 Sat	10:00	The four open Cage 4. A letter in her hand that says I know, and the name board from her hall. Read at Ruby's kitchen table. Margo asks why the board is here and is answered: she is telling us something. Brad says she might have been wrong about all of it. Weekly meetings agreed. Margo reads the line about the tin and knows it does not square with what Violet told her four years ago. She says nothing: the money was told in confidence, Violet lied fluently about small things, and she cannot yet tell which of them Violet lied to.

A3. The room

Day	Event
26	Meeting 2. The letter's line about the yard is read against Liam.
27	Liam confirms he owns a third of the yard. A fact in the letter is true. Ruby is shaken. Margo, who did not know, says nothing about the money she does know.
33	Meeting 3. The tin. The letter says the money is Liam's, paid quarterly since the yard. Liam: I never gave her a penny. Brad: she might have been wrong about the money, and if she was wrong about that she was wrong about the rest; we cannot do this to Liam on a maybe. He loses.
40	Meeting 4. The ladder. The letter says she had told Liam which ladder. Liam: she told everyone which ladder.
47	Meeting 5. The board, and the money read again beside it: every quarter since the yard. Margo begins the sums: eight years of quarterly payments against a tin whose contents she once put a figure to.
51	Margo opens her own file. Day -1450, in her hand: cash, mother, no tax. The letter has the money wrong. Violet did not lie to them. So the letter is not Violet's. So somebody wrote it, before Saturday, and left a real thing of hers beside it.
51 to 53	The sums at three in the morning come out the same. The one person who kept the room on Liam by defending him.
46	Brad had already placed the bag at the ridge wall: clothes, cash, the panel wrapped, on a customer run. Ready since Day 30. Margo is the trigger, not the plan.
54	Meeting 6. Margo stops arguing with Brad and stops looking at the other two. Brad notices.
60 Fri 22:40	Van to the Kestrel Head car park. 23:12 one message to the group thread: I can't do this any more. I'm sorry. Phone on the seat. The watch, smashed with a stone, thrown to the rocks. 23:30 the coast path inland, then the ridge path.
61 Sat 05:47	First train from the inland halt, cash single. 15:00 at the lodgings, a job that ran late.

Day	Event
61 06:30	A dog walker finds the van. Police. Del. Coastguard search Days 61 to 63. Flat searched Day 61 evening: passport, cards, tools, laptop, all present.
62	Watch found at the base. Reference sample: toothbrush, razor, prints lifted from the flat. Missing person, high risk, presumed in the water. Interviews Days 62 to 63: Ruby, Liam, Margo, each says grief. None mentions the letters.
64 →	The three keep meeting. Ruby drives it.
77	Margo to Tessa on the app: the thing in the cupboard is wrong. It can't mean that. Tessa screenshots it because Margo does not say things like that.
82	The sister, clearing the unit, cuts the padlock on Cage 4. Empty.
91	Brad's rent stops.
96	It lands. Ruby says it to Liam's face. Liam leaves and does not come back.
117	The landlord clears the flat. Boxes to Ruby.
97 → 213	Liam and Ruby do not speak. Margo withdraws from Ruby. Margo drives to Tessa every second Sunday.

A4. The stranger, the return, the second death

Day	Event
180	A new contact on the green app, from a number that leads nowhere: you're the one who stopped believing the letter. Brad has her number from the group and knew the app from Violet.
180 → 212	He knows the wording of the message, the watch, the time on the car park clock. He says Brad was not alone that night. Everything points her away from Brad and towards the woman who ran every meeting. Everything deletes. Margo does not turn: she keeps arriving at the man who defended Liam.
212 Wed	Friday. The point. Eleven. I'll show you where he went down and you'll see it isn't what they said.
213 Thu	Brad tells the landlady a job away Friday to Saturday. Train south, cash, two changes.
214 Fri 17:10	The last train of the day reaches the inland halt. He walks the ridge path, 19 miles.
214	Margo tells nobody. Tessa expects her on Sunday, as every second Sunday.
214 22:50	Margo's car in the Kestrel Head car park, ten minutes early. She sits in the car until the hour.
214 23:00	The point. He asks to see what he sent her. She hands him the phone. He pockets it.
214 23:10	She goes over. Her phone and his prepaid off the point into deep water at 23:20.
215 Sat 05:47	The first train. The clerk sells a cash single to a man with wet boots and complains about the change. A woman on the platform notices the boots.
215 06:40	The same dog walker finds the car. Police. Search.
215 09:30	Registration gives her home address. Officers attend: nobody in. In the kitchen drawer, an accountant's card in her hand: in case, ring Tessa, with a number. Margo prepared for exactly this, eleven years ago.
215 15:00	Tessa is rung, and drives down. A partner nobody in Havenbay knew is on the file the same afternoon. Margo's office, shut until Monday, is told on Day 217 and knows of no partner.
215	Del pulls Brad's file beside it: two of Violet Moore's four, same car park, five months apart.
218	Margo's body in Havenbay harbour. Post-mortem: injuries fully explained by the fall and the water.
219 → 221	Del interviews Liam and Ruby as Margo's friends. Each, separately, frightened, hands over the letters and says: I am frightened of him. I am frightened of her.

Day	Event
222	Formal statements. Three deaths, five letters, two survivors. The detective division takes it with Del attached.
225	Margo's carrier records: Tessa's town, the road home, the car park at 22:40, no signal after 23:20. Data sessions only.
230 → 250	The cage letter examined against the four key letters and her unit paper: consistent with known samples, same paper stock.
235	Solicitor confirms lodging on Day –18. Her fear predates her death.
240	App provider: account exists, no content retained, no contact metadata. Tessa re-interviewed: gives the line about the cupboard; read as Margo doubting the reading, which fits Liam's account.
245	Coroner's officer asked to look again at Violet: no new physical evidence, finding stands. Brad's file: no change.
262	No further action. Both survivors informed.
263	Ruby talks to the Gazette.
265	Front page: the four friends of Violet Moore, the wake photograph. Liam, doorstepped: ask her who ran the meetings.

A5. Ally

Day	Ep	Event
266		Ally reads it. Del: we looked. Properly. There's nothing.
269	1	Ally has the paper, Ruby's willingness, and Del's nothing.
276	2	Ruby: the room, the letters read out, the boxes, Brad's habits: keys on the table moved twice, thank you like it cost him, up at five to run.
283	3	The café and the cinema owner: she was calling money in; and she was carrying a gold panel round asking whose hand it was. Ally does not know what that means. The download map shows a listener in a town 400 miles away from this week.
290	4	Liam talks. The fishmonger at Bay 3 rings the Tip Line: the young one was at her cage on the Wednesday. Ally gives it to Del and does not air it.
297	5	Ally asks: did Margo say anything to anyone.
300		Tessa writes, with the screenshot.
304	6	The words go on air, from a woman two hours up the coast: the thing in the cupboard is wrong. Ally: if the thing was wrong there was a real thing, and nobody has found one. What did Violet have in her last months that she hadn't before. Two signwriters write in about the panel.
311	7	I think against I know. The solicitor's slip dates the first. The letter that is kind to exactly one man.
311		The skipper writes: the deckhand who used to drink at Brad the signwriter's went missing three years before Violet. To Del, never aired: it points at a dead man as a killer, not at a living one. Del revives the file on Day 312.
318	8	The woman from the platform writes: the first train, the Saturday the car was found, wet boots, cash. To Del, not on air. Ally asks: if you were on that train, write to me.
325	9	The panel described: black ground, twenty-six gold capitals and an ampersand, a crack across one corner, a small mark bottom right that was not her name and not his. One of a kind.
325 night		Brad takes it off the wall and burns it in the workshop stove.
326		The landlady, who has listened since Day 283, who half-saw the wake photograph online on Day 266 and dismissed it for the beard, who has heard six weeks of his habits from strangers, dusts his room on a Tuesday. Gone. She writes to Ally that night, privately, with her address.
327		Ally to Del, 07:00. Del to the other force.
328 → 332		He notices her.
332	10	Indistinguishable from episode nine.

Day	Ep	Event
333		Arrest on the identity offences. The other force runs the name: a low-risk missing-person file in Harbor Ward, three years before Violet, last address a boat, revived on Day 312 on the skipper's word that the man drank with Brad Collins. Prints against the Day 62 reference. Brad Collins, alive.

B. THE ACCESS LEDGER

One row per fact. Columns: fact · who holds it · from when · by what route · who they could lawfully tell · the recipient's earliest competent action on that fact alone. "Nobody" in the tell column means a duty of confidence or no lawful audience; "anyone" means it is not confidential.

B1. Facts that exist before Day 0

#	Fact	Holder	From	Route	Could tell	Recipient's earliest action
1	Violet holds cash, in a tin, more than painting explains	Violet, Margo, Brad (the tin, not the size), Liam from Day 2	Day -1500	Violet's own act; Margo told for the tax question; Brad saw the tin at the unit	Anyone; Margo owes confidence	None: cash is lawful
2	The cash came from her mother's house	Violet, Margo	Day -1450	Violet told Margo; Margo's file note	Margo: nobody, without Violet's consent	None
3	Violet lent Brad the van money, no paper	Violet, Brad, Margo	Day -2000	Violet told Margo	Margo: nobody	None
4	Violet is calling in every debt, Brad's the largest	Violet, Margo, Brad	Day -120 / -110	Told directly	Margo: nobody	None
5	Liam owns a third of the yard	Liam, Violet, Brad	Day -2900; Brad from Day -500	Liam told Violet; Violet told Brad	Anyone: a lawful private shareholding; the yard's register is not public	None
5a	The boat name board in Violet's hall was Liam's gift from the yard, eight years ago, off the first boat lifted after he bought in	The four (they have all seen it in her hall); Brad knows the provenance and the date from Violet	Day -2900; Brad from Day -500	Violet told Brad the story; the others saw the board	Anyone	None
5b	Nobody but Brad was inside Violet's house between Day -19 and Day 0	Brad	Day 0	Her visits happen at the unit and the slip	Nobody	The board's absence from the hall cannot be dated by any of the four

#	Fact	Holder	From	Route	Could tell	Recipient's earliest action
6	Margo has a partner two hours up the coast and an app for her	Margo, Tessa; Violet (a Sunday and a green app, no name); Brad from Violet	Day –4000; Violet Day –600; Brad Day –500	Observation; Violet to Brad	Anyone	None
7	Brad's declared turnover is falling while the van stays busy	Brad; the pub landlord (his own payments); Margo (the pub's books)	Day –700	Margo does the pub's accounts	Margo: her client's affairs are confidential; a cash payment to a tradesman is lawful	None: nothing to report
8	Brad told the four a wedding; it was a marathon	Brad; Ruby	Day –250 / –200	A patient's son showed Ruby the results page	Anyone	None
9	Brad asked Liam what the yard would give for the van	Brad, Liam	Day –200	Direct	Anyone	None
10	Brad has a room, a name, and papers 400 miles away	Brad; the landlady knows a lodger under the other name	Day –400	His own act	The landlady: anyone; she has nothing to say	None
10a	A deckhand went missing from his skipper's boat three years before Violet	HCPD (a low-risk MP file, last address the boat, no mention of Brad); the skipper	Day –1090	The skipper's report; harbour master and pub enquiries	Anyone	None then. On Day 222 the proper look pulls everything on Brad and finds nothing, because the file does not carry his name. On Day 333 the name arrested 400 miles away is the name on this file, and the skipper is the man who can say where the deckhand used to drink
10b	The deckhand is dead, and how	Brad	Day –1100	His act	Nobody	None
10c	The deckhand drank at "Brad the signwriter's, the one with the van"	The skipper, from the deckhand's talk; never a surname, never an address	Day –1200	The deckhand said so	Anyone	Not asked in –1090: a low-risk report of an itinerant adult takes no list of drinking companions (R16). He connects the name when it is on air and writes to Ally on Day 311. Del revives the file on Day 312, runs the name: nothing since –1090 (row 10d). The link waits on her desk until Day 333
10d	No document anywhere carries Brad's face under the other name	Brad	Day –900	His design	Nobody	An activity check on the name, if ever run, returns nothing since Day –1090

#	Fact	Holder	From	Route	Could tell	Recipient's earliest action
10e	The prepaids, his and the one that spoke to Margo, were bought for cash with no registration	Brad	Day -500; Day 180	Havenbay prepaids are anonymous: settled at premise v8 as "a cash number" and "a number that leads nowhere"	Nobody	No provider ever sees a face or a name (round two, finding 9)
11	A panel in an unknown hand was hidden in Violet's roof space	Violet; four people she showed it to	Day -75; -70 to -40	The leak; she carried it round	Anyone	The four she showed: none, it is a panel
12	Violet is asking round town whose hand	Café owner, cinema owner, two signwriters; Brad from the café	Day -70 to -40	Direct	Anyone	Brad: accelerate
13	The ladder foot was undone, not sheared	Violet	Day -45	Her own inspection	Police, if she chose	Police: examine the ladder, no offence proven, no suspect named, note and advise
14	Violet fell from a ladder and was treated	Ruby (clinical record), Violet, the four	Day -45	Surgery	Ruby: nobody outside care	None
15	Four keys cut to one new padlock	Locksmith	Day -20	His book	Anyone asking	None
16	Four sealed envelopes lodged to be posted after her funeral	Solicitor	Day -18	Instruction	Nobody: client confidence, contents unknown to him	None; on death, post them
17	Violet believes one of the four is planning to kill her	Violet only	Day -45 to 0	Her inference from rows 11 and 13	Police	See Part C, Violet

B2. Facts created on Day 0 and by the death

#	Fact	Holder	From	Route	Could tell	Recipient's earliest action
18	Brad walked to and from Mariner's Row on Monday night	Brad; No. 14 saw a man's back, nothing in his hands	Day 0	Direct	No. 14: anyone	Told at the Day 1 door-knock. Noted: unidentified male in the lane, approx 22:30. No description beyond build and a coat. Nothing to test it against; the four are asked on Day 2 whether any of them called Monday night and all say no. On Day 222 it is re-read against Liam, who held a key. A listener on Day 297 notes the build No. 14 gave is wrong for Liam
19	Brad's phone was at his flat all evening	Carrier (cell-site)	Day 0	Records, R8	Police on lawful request only	None without a suspect

#	Fact	Holder	From	Route	Could tell	Recipient's earliest action
20	Her debt book is gone	Brad; Margo notices its absence Day 8	Day 0 / 8	Margo helped the sister with paperwork	Margo: the sister	Sister: shrug; nobody else knew it existed. The book is Brad's exemplar for her cursive on Day 17 and is ash by Day 18
21	Violet died of a head injury at the foot of her stairs, unwitnessed	HCPD, Cortez, coroner, the four, the sister	Day 1 to 3	Scene, PM, R5	Public in outline	Coroner: accident (Ruling 1)
22	A fall six weeks earlier is on her GP record	Ruby, the PM (via GP)	Day -45 / 3	Record	Supports the finding	None
23	Liam found her and holds a key to the house	HCPD file	Day 1	Sudden-death report	Police	None; noted
24	The tin exists and went to the sister	The four, the sister, HCPD (noted as property)	Day 2 to 5	Liam's honesty	Anyone	None

B3. The letters and the cage

#	Fact	Holder	From	Route	Could tell	Recipient's earliest action
25	Each of the four holds a letter in her hand: I think, one of you, not the police, the cage	The four	Day 14	Post	Each: anyone. The letter asks them not to	Del, if handed it: statement; under R22 the document is examined before anything is done with it (weeks; consistent); no offence, no named suspect, a closed accident; the coroner's officer is asked whether it changes anything: it does not (R19). The letter comes back to its owner with a police stamp saying it is hers
26	Which cage, and that it holds a thing	The four	Day 14	The letter	Anyone	None
27	Brad went to the cage on the Wednesday and the Friday	Brad; the Bay 3 fishmonger (Wed). The market's one camera covers vehicles in the loading bay, not the corridor door round the side by the units (R25's shape); Brad parked on the street	Day 16, 18	Sight	Fishmonger: anyone. Nobody asks until Day 290	If anyone alleging tampering had asked the market before Day 60, the fishmonger would have named Brad. Nobody alleged it

#	Fact	Holder	From	Route	Could tell	Recipient's earliest action
28	What the genuine cage letter said: the ladder foot, the panel, the mark, "not Brad's hand, I taught him", and an instruction to pool everything odd each of you knows of the others	Brad only	Day 16	He read it	Nobody	It is ash
29	The panel is in Brad's possession	Brad	Day 16	Taken	Nobody	None
30	The cage letter (forged) says I know; the tin is Liam's; the yard; the ladder told to Liam; the board; and never mentions a panel	The four, then Ruby's drawer	Day 19	The cage	Anyone; the letter itself says not the police	Del, if handed it on any day from 19: as row 25, examination routine under R22: consistent
31	The name board is Violet's, hung in her hall for eight years, and none of the four had been in the house since before Day –19	The four	Day 19	Recognition	Anyone	None: she took it down and put it there, they assume, and nobody can say when the hook emptied (row 5b)
32	Liam's third is confirmed in the room	The four	Day 27	Liam	Anyone	Del: a lawful shareholding
33	The letter has the money wrong	Margo only	Day 51	Her own file, row 2	Del, the room, Tessa	Del: statement recorded, both documents preserved, R22 examination (consistent), the contradiction referred to the coroner's officer, who finds that a dispute about where a dead woman's cash came from is not evidence of an act (R19). The allegation does not fail; it stays open and unresolved on a closed file, all four are interviewed about the cage, and the room learns she called the letter a fake
34	Margo has stopped arguing with Brad	Brad	Day 54	Observation	Nobody	Go

B4. The vanish

#	Fact	Holder	From	Route	Could tell	Recipient's earliest action
35	Brad's van, phone, message and watch are at Kestrel Head	HCPD (Del), the three, the dog walker	Day 61	Scene	Public in outline	Del: MP, search, sample, interviews (Ruling 2)

#	Fact	Holder	From	Route	Could tell	Recipient's earliest action
36	His flat holds his passport, cards, tools, laptop; his accounts are thin and untouched after Day 60	HCPD	Day 61	Search	Police	Consistent with the water
37	A reference sample and prints exist for Brad Collins	HCPD	Day 62	MP practice	Police	Retained (Ruling 2)
38	He walked the ridge path and took the 05:47	The halt's platform camera (R7, expires Day 85); the clerk	Day 61	Sight; tape	Anyone, if asked	Nobody asks: the MP is presumed in the sea
39	A bag was placed at the ridge wall on Day 46	Brad	Day 46	His act	Nobody	None; the wall is empty by Day 61
40	The three were meeting weekly over letters from the dead woman	The three	Day 19 onward	Their own act	Del at interview Day 62	If told: Del reads the vanish as a grieving man. If shown the letters: Del reads the vanish as possible guilt, notes it on the closed file, cannot charge a presumed-dead man, cannot reopen a coroner's finding on a text message (Ruling 1). Either way, nothing moves
41	Brad's things are in boxes at Ruby's	Ruby, the landlord	Day 117	Clearance	Anyone	None; there is nothing in them
42	"The thing in the cupboard is wrong. It can't mean that."	Tessa (screenshot); Margo	Day 77	The app	Tessa: anyone; she does not know what cupboard	None until asked

B5. The stranger and the second death

#	Fact	Holder	From	Route	Could tell	Recipient's earliest action
43	A stranger on the green app knows things about Brad's death	Margo; Brad	Day 180	The app	Margo: Tessa, Del, Ruby, Liam. She tells nobody	If she told Del: a number that leads nowhere on a self-deleting app; nothing to pull; note. If she told Tessa: Tessa would tell her not to go
44	The meeting: Friday, the point, eleven	Margo, Brad	Day 212	The app	As 43	As 43
45	Brad was absent from the lodgings Friday to Saturday	The landlady	Day 213	Told a job	Anyone	None until Day 327
46	Brad rode the trains south and north on cash	Guards, the halt clerk, platform camera (R7, expires Day 246), a woman on the platform	Day 214, 215	Sight	Anyone if asked	Nobody asks: the death is an apparent suicide (Rulings 5, 7)

#	Fact	Holder	From	Route	Could tell	Recipient's earliest action
47	Brad's prepaid pinged the Kestrel Head cell at 22:50 on Day 214	Carrier	Day 214	Records, R8	Police on a tower request	A tower dump is not ordered for an apparent suicide (Ruling 5)
48	Margo's car, ten minutes early, and her body three days later	HCPD, the dog walker, her office, Tessa	Day 215, 218	Scene	Public	Del: search; Ruling 6 link; Ruling 7 camera; PM
49	Margo had a partner nobody knew	Tessa, HCPD	Day 215	The "in case" card in Margo's kitchen drawer; officers attending her address from the car's registration	Police	Statement the same afternoon; last movements
50	Margo's phone is not recovered	HCPD	Day 218	Search	Police	Carrier records (row 47's reach is the ruling)
51	Two survivors, five letters, three deaths	HCPD	Day 219 to 222	Del's own initiative and their fear	Police	The proper look: Days 222 to 262
52	The cage letter is consistent with her known samples	HCPD	Day 250	Examination	Police; the survivors are told	Nothing to act on
53	The letters were lodged on Day -18	Solicitor, HCPD	Day 235	Confirmation	Police	Her fear predates her death; it does not name an act

B6. What Ally can reach, and from whom

#	Fact	Ally's source	Day	Lawful	Route into the episode
54	Everything public	Gazette front page	266	Yes	Ep 1
55	The letters, the room, the boxes, Brad's habits	Ruby, on record	270 onward	Yes: Ruby owns her letter and holds the cage letter after its return from police	Ep 2
56	The debts being called in; the panel carried round	Café owner, cinema owner, two signwriters	280 to 304	Yes	Ep 3, 6, 9
57	Brad at the cage on the Wednesday	Bay 3 fishmonger, Tip Line	290	Yes, caller consents	To Del. Not aired
58	Liam's side	Liam	288	Yes	Ep 4
59	The screenshot	Tessa	300	Yes: Tessa owns it	Ep 6, anonymised, with consent
60	The 05:47 and the boots	The platform woman	318	Yes	To Del. Ally asks on air for others
61	A persistent listener in one town 400 miles away	Her own download map	283 onward	Yes, her own data	To Del on Day 326 as corroboration. Never aired
62	The solicitor's covering slip and postmark	Ruby's envelope	276	Yes	Ep 7

#	Fact	Ally's source	Day	Lawful	Route into the episode
63	The lodger, the wall, the gap	The landlady, private message	326	Yes	To Del at 07:00. Never aired
64	Anything in the police file	Del		No, and she never gets it. Del says looked, nothing	Ally's sourcing never depends on the file

B7. Residue: what Brad's swap, vanish, contact and return leave behind

#	Residue	Where it sits	Who could find it	When it dies
R1	Two dawn visits to Cage 4	Bay 3 fishmonger's memory; no camera sees the corridor door	Anyone who asks the market with a tampering allegation or hypothesis (R27); nobody does until Ally on Day 290	Memory does not die
R2	Her pen and paper used, drafts burned, the debt book burned	Nothing survives; the pen is back in the unit and goes to the sister	Nobody	Day 17
R3	A hand better than his public one, and years of private practice of hers	Only in the cage letter, which passes as hers; the practice sheets were burned each Tuesday night from Day –1800	An examiner told to compare it against Brad's public work would find no match, because he never wrote in that hand as Brad	Never tested that way
R3a	Nobody in the room ever saw Brad write cursive	Their memories	A listener who asks: what did his handwriting look like? Ruby cannot answer; Ally airs that on Day 311	Never
R4	The bag at the ridge wall	Dry-stone wall, fourteen days	A walker between Day 46 and 60	Day 60
R5	The walk and the 05:47 on Day 61	Platform camera; the clerk	Anyone asking the halt	Tape Day 92; the clerk's memory fades
R6	The identity: a missing man's genuine name, with Brad's face on no document	The low-risk MP file in Del's own precinct, last address the boat; the deckhand's genuine passport and birth certificate in a drawer 400 miles away	The other force on Day 333 runs the arrested name and hits the file (Ruling 8). Nothing links the file to Brad before that day	Never
R6a	The skipper who reported him	His memory: the deckhand drank at Brad the signwriter's, the one with the van; a name he was never asked for	Ally's listeners; he writes in on Day 311. To Del, never aired	Memory
R6b	The deckhand's dry bag at Brad's flat, three years	Gone with the papers by Day –900; the flat search on Day 61 finds nothing of him	Nobody	Day –900
R7	Quarterly cash rent for over a year before he vanished	The landlady's rent book	Anyone who asks her, after Day 327	Never
R8	The prepaid's cell hits at Kestrel Head, Day 214	Carrier	A tower request (Ruling 5)	R8: seven years
R9	The trains, Days 213 to 215	Guards, clerk, platform camera; the woman on the platform	Anyone asking; the woman writes to Ally on Day 318	Tape Day 246
R10	Wet boots and a cash single at 05:40	The clerk, the woman	As R9	Memory
R11	Absence from the lodgings, Day 213 to 215, told as a job	The landlady	After Day 327	Never

#	Residue	Where it sits	Who could find it	When it dies
R12	Ash in a workshop stove, Day 325	The stove	The other force, Day 333	Days
R13	A persistent download in one town from Day 283	Ally's analytics	Ally	Never
R14	The debt book	Burned with the drafts, Day 17	Nobody	Day 17
R15	A man's back in the lane at 22:30, Day 0, nothing in his hands	No. 14; the sudden-death file (unidentified male, lane)	The Day 222 review re-reads it against Liam; a listener on Day 297 says the build is wrong for Liam	Memory; the file note is permanent
R16	An empty hook and a pale rectangle on the hall wall in the Day 1 scene photographs	The sudden-death file (R5: the sister may obtain the evidence tendered)	The Day 222 review sees it and it agrees with what the survivors say: she took the board down to hide it. It dates nothing. Only someone who already believes the swap can read it the other way	Never

C. THE SWEEP (STEP 1b, WITH THE RECIPIENT COLUMN)

Authored order ignored. For each person, from the first day they can know anything: what they can lawfully know · the earliest competent action · the recipient · the recipient's earliest response · every duty the combined facts trigger · the earliest consequential outcome. A suppression is named in the last column and must be world-supplied. The planned turns it is measured against: the swap (Day 18), the reading landing on Liam (Day 96), Brad's vanish (Day 60), Margo's death (Day 214), the survivors at the station (Day 219), Ally (Day 269), the identification (Day 333).

Rule applied throughout: an open route that reaches an authority and produces nothing is not a suppression. It is computed, the recipient is named, and the outcome is written down.

C1. Violet (Day -120 to Day 0)

Week	What she can know	Earliest competent action	Recipient	Recipient's earliest response	Duties triggered	Outcome	Named cost
-11 to -7	Someone hid a panel in her roof; someone close has a hand she cannot place	Ask round town	Signwriters, café, cinema	Nobody knows the hand	None	Brad hears	She pays with the acceleration (Day -40)
-7	The ladder foot was undone	Report to police with the ladder	Del (Harbor Ward)	Examine the ladder; a bolt undone is not an offence proven; no suspect named; log, advise, offer nothing more	None: no offence, no named person	A record that she was frightened, and the person who did it learns she knows	Her refusal is competent and her stated reason is correct. Cost: her life

Week	What she can know	Earliest competent action	Recipient	Recipient's earliest response	Duties triggered	Outcome	Named cost
-3	The above, combined	Tell one of the four	Any of the four	Three would go to the police with her; one would move	None	25 per cent chance of telling the killer	Her design (four keys) is her answer to exactly this. Paid
-3	The above	Tell her solicitor why	Solicitor	Advise police; cannot compel	None on sealed envelopes	As row -7	She jokes instead. Consistent with the five Verdict: PASS. Every route Violet had ends at the same desk with the same result and the killer informed. She chose the design the premise rests on. The sweep does not require her to be right; it requires her refusal to be hers, and it is.

C2. Brad (coherence with what he wants, not risk minimisation)

Week	Position	Action taken	Coherent because	Cheaper alternative rejected, and why
-157	He needs a name nobody will ever look for	Kill the lodger for it	A bought name has a seller; a dead infant's record has a register; a man with no one, reported by a skipper and closed as drifted, is the only name with no file that watches it. The exit came first, and this is what first means	Take the papers and let the man live: a living man reclaims a name the day he needs it
-16	The debt is called in; the exit is built	Decide she dies	Leaving as Brad Collins with a debt to a woman who forgets nobody lights up the cash economy Margo audits; dying as Brad Collins needs a grief; hers gives him both	Pay her: the cash is the exit. Move: a man who moved is a man who can be found
-7	The ladder	A fall that reads as a fall	Falls are his method; a survivor who slipped is survivable	A weapon leaves a wound the PM reads
-6	She is carrying the panel round	Wait for the debt conversation to give him a reason to be in her house	A visit about money is an ordinary visit	Retrieve the panel first: she has hidden it and he cannot search her without showing his hand
1	The stairs	One push, twenty minutes, the book, the lane	One impact, no second wound; the phone at home; on foot	Finish her if she breathed: a second injury is the end of accident
3	The key letter	Read the cage on the Wednesday, not the Saturday	The cage letter says what she reasoned and the panel is there; both must go before four people read them	Do nothing: the four pool what they know and he is the only one with weekends away, cash and a question about the van
3	The cage letter read	Swap, do not empty	Empty tells four people someone came early; a letter in her hand that says I know hands them weeks of work pointing elsewhere	Destroy the panel: it is the best thing he has made and she wrote that he could not have made it
3 to 7	The room	Defend Liam on she might have been wrong	An innocent surface, and the reading returns harder each time	Accuse Liam: legible forwards, and Liam reads him like an invoice
8	Margo has gone quiet	Go now, by the plan ready since Day 30	A second death in the group is a case; a grieving friend at Kestrel Head is not	Kill Margo now: see previous cell

Week	Position	Action taken	Coherent because	Cheaper alternative rejected, and why
9 to 25	Missing, presumed	Nothing. Listen.	The least-cost move is stillness
26 to 30	Margo has not spoken in five months	Contact her from a prepaid, on Violet's information	She is the one person who can think alive; he needs to know whether she has been turned, and he wants to be the one who turns her (the want the least-cost test does not score)	Stillness: she may speak any week and he will not know until it is too late
31	She will not turn	The meeting at the point	A woman who blamed herself for one man at that cliff dies at that cliff and everyone has the reason ready; and she must hand him the phone	Leave her: the one person who thinks alive is now certain there is a stranger who knows too much
39 to 47	Ally is airing it	Stay. Listen.	Leaving costs the built life and would confirm to someone nearby that they had seen something
47	The panel described	Burn it that night; watch the house	Someone near him may have seen it; he cannot know who; the object must not exist	Run: as above
47	The landlady changes	Notice her, as Margo	Too late: she wrote the night she looked

Verdict: every action is coherent from inside and the two that look insane from outside (the contact, the return) are the compulsion the three real cases show, and the residue rows in B7 price them.

C3. Liam

Week	What he can lawfully know	Earliest competent action	Recipient	Recipient's earliest response	Duties	Outcome	Named cost / lock
1	He found her; the tin	Hand the tin to the sister	Sister	Takes it	None	Done Day 5	None
3	The key letter	Take it to Del	Del	Row 25: statement; R22 examination first (weeks; consistent); no offence; the coroner's officer: nothing changes (R19)	None	Nothing; the other three learn he went, and his letter comes back stamped hers	Violet's reasons still live; he holds nothing but a maybe
4	The cage letter names his third and says the tin is his	As above, with a letter in her hand that names his secret and calls the money his	Del	Statement; R22 examination of both letters first (consistent); the yard's affairs are lawful; the letter is not an allegation of an act by him; note	None	Liam is the man who brought police a letter accusing himself; the third is on a police file; nothing else	Self-interest lock, tested: holds, because the only document he owns points at him
6	Brad defends him, loses	As above					Holds

Week	What he can lawfully know	Earliest competent action	Recipient	Recipient's earliest response	Duties	Outcome	Named cost / lock
9	Brad is missing	Tell Del at interview: we were working her letters and they had begun to point at me	Del	Row 40: R22 examination of the letters first (consistent); then reads the vanish as guilt or grief; either way no charge, no reopening; Liam is now the man the letters pointed at, on the file, beside a friend who killed himself	None	Nothing moves; the file now contains him	Holds, and harder: a dead friend's message plus a letter pointing at him is worse for him than silence
14	It lands on him	I am frightened of Ruby	Del	What has she done? Nothing. Note	None	Nothing	Holds: fear of the letter still exceeds fear of Ruby
14 to 30	Silence, estrangement	As above					Holds; nothing has changed
31	Margo is dead at the same cliff	Go in, now	Del (who is already coming to him)	The proper look	Police duty on three deaths	Days 222 to 262	The break point, exactly where finding 2 put it: fear of a person exceeds fear of the letter

Verdict: PASS. The lock is renewed at every change of facts and breaks on the change the premise breaks it on. Note for the attack: at Week 8 Liam's route is open and computed, and it makes his position worse, which is why he does not take it.

C4. Ruby (with the professional duty run separately)

Week	What she can lawfully know	Earliest competent action	Recipient	Recipient's earliest response	Duties	Outcome	Named cost / lock
-7	Violet fell from a ladder	Treat, record	Record		Clinical: done
1	Violet is dead; the record shows a prior fall	Nothing to act on			Reading the record without a clinical reason is a breach; she does it	Nothing	Cost: a breach she never mentions

Week	What she can lawfully know	Earliest competent action	Recipient	Recipient's earliest response	Duties	Outcome	Named cost / lock
3	The key letter	Take it to Del	Del	Row 25	Professional duty tested: a written fear by a dead person names no living person at risk; safeguarding duties attach to the living; no duty arises	Nothing; Violet's instruction broken for nothing	Lock: her reading is she was frightened, then she fell, and she read every face in that kitchen and saw no lie
4	Liam's third is true, so the letter is right about something	Duty renews on the new fact. Go to Del with both letters	Del	Statement; R22: both letters examined before anything else, weeks, consistent; a lawful secret; the letter alleges no act; the coroner's officer: no new evidence of an act (R19)	None: still no living person at risk	Nothing, Liam learns she went, and the letter returns to the room with a police stamp saying it is Violet's, which makes the reading harder to resist, not easier	Open route, computed, does not deliver. She does not take it because it costs her the room and gains nothing, which is a reason the world supplies. If she did, the room would be worse for Liam
6	The tin claim; Liam denies	As above					Holds
9	Brad missing with a message	Tell Del about the letters	Del	Row 40, examination first	None: Brad is presumed dead, nobody alive is named at risk	Nothing moves	She reads the message as grief because she loves him; and Violet's reasons still live because the letter's suspects are still alive
14	It lands on Liam	I am frightened of him	Del	What has he done? Nothing. Note	None	Nothing	Holds
16	The boxes	Nothing in them
31	Margo dead	Go in	Del (already coming)	The proper look	Police duty	Days 222 to 262	Break point: fear of a person
38	No further action	Talk to the Gazette	Gazette	Front page		Ally	Her fear made public

Verdict: PASS, with the thin lock named: from Day 27 Ruby has an open route to Del, every week, that produces a note on a closed file and a friend who knows she broke the dead woman's instruction. The spine does not silence her; it computes what she would get and it is nothing.

C5. Margo

Week	What she can lawfully know	Earliest competent action	Recipient	Recipient's earliest response	Duties	Outcome	Named cost / lock
-17	Violet is calling in debts; Brad owes most	Nothing: lawful			Accountant's confidence to Violet
2	The debt book is gone	Tell the sister	Sister	Shrug	None	Nothing
3	The key letter	Take it to Del	Del	Row 25	Professional duty tested: she is an accountant, not a regulated reporter of suspected homicide; nothing in the letter is a financial crime	Nothing	Holds as Ruby's

Week	What she can lawfully know	Earliest competent action	Recipient	Recipient's earliest response	Duties	Outcome	Named cost / lock
3 (Day 19)	The cage letter's tin claim does not square with what Violet told her on Day –1450. She holds the fact continuously; there is no file to consult for the fact, only for the figure	(a) Say so in the room. (b) Take the inconsistency and the letters to Del	(a) The room. (b) Del	(a) The room asks how she knows; she must say Violet told her a thing she promised never to repeat, in front of the person who forged it. (b) A tampering allegation on a closed accident: statement, documents preserved, R22 examination (consistent), contradiction referred to the coroner's officer and found not to be evidence of an act (R19), and under R27 the allegation licenses a canvass of the cage: the Bay 3 fishmonger names Brad as the Wednesday visitor by about Day 30. All four interviewed; Brad says he could not wait and went to look; an early look is not an offence; the letter carries a police stamp	None	(a) Brad knows tonight. (b) Brad is the known early visitor by Day 30, is interviewed, and goes that week. The reading never lands on Liam; the survivors never accuse each other; Ally's episode is a different shape	★ THE LOAD-BEARING REFUSAL OF THE SPINE, six weeks, Days 19 to 60, named and paid. Character-supplied, with three reasons the world supplies: the money is a dead friend's undeclared inheritance told in confidence, and saying so to police makes Violet a tax cheat and drags the sister and the estate; Violet lied fluently about small things, and on Day 19 Margo cannot tell which of them Violet lied to, so "the letter is wrong" is not yet a thing she knows; and an allegation names nobody, so she wants the who before she takes four friends apart on a dead woman's word against a dead woman's hand. Paid: Brad escapes on Day 60 and she dies of it on Day 214. This is the lock the reader has to believe; it is Margo's, and it is the same class as a competent adult's refusal
4	Liam's third (new to her)	As above. A fact in the letter is true, which makes "Violet lied to me, not to them" more possible, not less					Holds, and the reason strengthens

Week	What she can lawfully know	Earliest competent action	Recipient	Recipient's earliest response	Duties	Outcome	Named cost / lock
8	The sums (Day 47 to 53): eight years of quarterly money against a tin she once put a figure to; the file on Day 51 gives the figure	As Week 3	As Week 3	As Week 3; no camera ever covered the door, so nothing has expired and nothing changes in what Del could do	None	As Week 3	The refusal's reason changes: she now knows, and the sums point at the man she has never liked, which is the reason she distrusts them. Nine days of that, then Brad reads her silence. Paid: Day 60
9	Brad is gone	Tell Del: I think he forged it	Del	Forgery allegation against a presumed-dead man on a closed case: statement, examination (consistent), the cage's access asked about, nothing to charge and nobody to charge	None	Nothing, and she has said in public what she cannot live with	Guilt lock: she chooses she was wrong about him. Available to her because her certainty rests on what Violet told her, and Violet lied about cigarettes with total confidence
11	Guilt	Tell Tessa	Tessa	Tessa: what cupboard? Margo does not explain	None	A screenshot	Eleven years of compartments
14	It lands on Liam	Say the letter is wrong	The room	As Week 8 (a), with a dead man as the only alternative	None		Holds: the alternative is that she killed Brad
26 to 30	A stranger who knows	Tell Del; tell Tessa	Del: nothing to pull. Tessa: do not go	None		Holds: the stranger is the only person offering her the reading she can live in
31	The meeting	Do not go					She goes ten minutes early

Verdict: PASS, on a named character lock. From Day 19 Margo can lawfully start a chain that names Brad as the early visitor within a fortnight, and she does not, for six weeks, for the three reasons above. Three rounds of attack hit this lock first and it is the one thing in the spine that is hers rather than the world's. If a reader does not believe Margo would keep a dead friend's confidence about undeclared money while a letter in that friend's hand is being worked, the episode fails here and nowhere else.

C6. Tessa

Week	What she can lawfully know	Earliest competent action	Recipient	Recipient's earliest response	Duties	Outcome
11	A line about a cupboard	Ask	Margo	Does not explain	None	Screenshot kept
31	Rung by police at 15:00 on Day 215 from the card in Margo's drawer	Drive down; statement	Havenbay police	Last movements; she is on the file the afternoon the car is found	None	The partner nobody knew is found by the review inside nine hours, because Margo left a card
35	Re-interviewed	Give the line	Detective	Read as doubt about the reading; on file	None	Nothing
43	Ally asks	Write, with the screenshot	Ally	On air, anonymised		Ep 6

Verdict: PASS. Tessa acts on the first day every time. What she holds does not carry a who.

C7. Del and HCPD

Day	The file on the desk	Earliest competent action	Duties triggered	Outcome	Why it stops there
1	Unwitnessed sudden death, head injury, stairs, secure house	Scene, PM, coroner, door-knock (movements and visitors)	Sudden death procedure	Accident (Ruling 1). No. 14's man in the lane is noted as unidentified; the four are asked on Day 2 whether any of them called and all say no	Nothing at the scene says otherwise; the PM cannot; an unidentified man in a back lane with no description is not an act
61	MP at a known site, message, watch, eight weeks after his friend's death	Search, sample, flat, interviews	MP procedure (Ruling 2)	Missing, presumed	Nobody mentions letters; if they had, row 40
215	A second car from the same four at the same site	Link the files (Ruling 6); search; Tessa's statement	MP, then sudden death	Suicide pending PM
218	Body, PM, phone absent	Last movements (Ruling 5); camera (Ruling 7); interview the surviving friends	Sudden-death procedure; a cluster	Del reaches Liam and Ruby on Day 219 before they reach her	Competent and on time
222	Five letters, three deaths, two accusations	Examination (Ruling 4); solicitor; coroner's officer; app provider; carrier; everything held on each of the four	All run, Days 222 to 262	Consistent; lodged Day -18; no new evidence of an act; no content; no recoverable contact; nothing on Brad beyond his own MP file; the lane sighting re-read against Liam, who held a key, and going nowhere	Nothing where they are looking, because nothing is there

Day	The file on the desk	Earliest competent action	Duties triggered	Outcome	Why it stops there
226	The letters' stated origin: Cage 4	The detective visits the cage (empty since Day 82, padlock cut by the sister), confirms the corridor is open in market hours with no custodian, asks the market manager about access	Proper review of a material document includes where it was found (finding 5, accepted this far)	Access: anyone with a key, any morning. No camera covers the corridor door	Ruled, R27 (Stephen, 2026-08-30): the review inspects the place and its access; a canvass of bystanders about who came before the finders needs an allegation or a hypothesis of tampering. Nobody alive holds one: authorship is examined and consistent, and both survivors dispute the reading, not the origin. Ally asks it on Day 290 because Tessa's line gave her the hypothesis. Finding 5 closed
292	Ally's Day 290 tip: the fishmonger saw Brad at the cage on the Wednesday. Del already holds Tessa's Day 240 line	Under R27 the two together are a tampering hypothesis. Del takes the fishmonger's statement, re-reads the cage letter's examination, runs Brad Collins for any activity since Day 60	A hypothesis on a closed file with a presumed-dead subject	Brad, presumed drowned, is the only known pre-opening visitor. No activity under his name. No charge possible, no reopening of Violet on a visit to a cage (R19), nothing to tell the survivors that is evidence	Del holds "Brad may have swapped it" privately from Day 292. It reaches nobody: not Ally (the file), not Brad (nothing moves under his name). It is why she moves inside a day on Day 327
312	The skipper's letter via Ally: the deckhand who vanished three years before Violet drank at Brad Collins's	Revive the low-risk file; formal statement; run both names	R16: reassessment on changed facts	The deckhand's name has no activity since Day -1090; Brad's none since Day 60. Two men presumed lost, one flat, three years apart	The name is now live in the system. Any officer anywhere who runs it gets Havenbay. Nobody runs it until Day 333
327	A landlady's message via Ally	Other force, prints, arrest		Day 333

Verdict: PASS. Nothing is withheld from Del and she initiates the survivor interviews herself. What the file cannot do is name a living man or reopen a finding without evidence of an act.

C8. Everyone else

Person	Knows	Earliest action	Recipient	Response	Why nothing follows
The skipper	His deckhand missed a sailing, Day -1090; drank at "Brad the signwriter's"	Report him missing	Harbor Ward	Harbour master, the pub (not there that night), the boat; low risk; closed as drifted (R16). Drinking companions are not taken for a low-risk itinerant adult	An itinerant adult with no one. The skipper is never asked where the man drank, and has no reason to volunteer a first name. He connects it when Brad Collins, signwriter, is on air, and writes to Ally on Day 311; to Del, never aired

Person	Knows	Earliest action	Recipient	Response	Why nothing follows
The constable, Day -1090	A man living aboard, last seen going ashore	Record, canvass, classify	The file	Low risk	Correct on what was in front of him; no one to place him with Brad. The pub is removed as a holder: the drinking was at the flat
Solicitor	Four sealed envelopes, Day -18	Post after funeral	The four		Contents unknown to him; no duty
Sister	Tin, house, unit, an empty cage at Day 82	None			An empty cage is an empty cage
Locksmith	Four keys, Day -20	None			Nobody asks until Ally
No. 14	A man's back in the lane, Day 0, nothing in his hands	Tell the door-knock	The Day 1 officer	Recorded: unidentified male, approx 22:30; the four asked on Day 2, all say no	No description to test; a back lane where people walk; not an act. Re-read against Liam on Day 222 and going nowhere
Bay 3 fishmonger	Brad at the cage, Day 16	None until asked	Tip Line, Day 290	To Del	A friend at a dead friend's cage is not a thing to report
Pub landlord	Paid Brad cash for a year	None			Lawful
Café, cinema, two signwriters	A gold panel, whose hand	None	Ally, Day 283 onward		A panel
Landlord (flat)	Rent stopped	Clear, boxes to Ruby
The halt clerk, the platform woman	Wet boots, cash, Day 215	None until asked	Ally, Day 318	To Del	A man with wet boots on a morning train
The landlady	A lodger under the other name; his absences; the panel on his wall until Day 325 and gone on Day 326; his habits, from six weeks of strangers on air	Two routes, both computed. Local police, Day 326: a constable attends, asks the lodger his name, gets the deckhand's, runs it, and hits the file Del revived on Day 312; arrest that day or the next, with a constable on her doorstep while Brad is in the house and before anyone in Havenbay knows. Ally, Day 326 night: Del at 07:00, the other force the same day, observation, arrest on Day 333, and she is never seen to have moved. She takes the second because Ally has said on every episode: write to me, not to him, and not to anyone near him; I will take it to the police here. v8 settled it: tips to Del and never on air	Ally, then Del, then the other force	Day 333	Her window is hours and she uses them. Either route ends in the same cell; the premise chose the one that keeps her alive

Person	Knows	Earliest action	Recipient	Response	Why nothing follows
Ally	Everything in B6	Del first, every time	Del		Airing a name would tell him which town; she never has one to air

C9. Causal order check (pipeline rule 5)

Claimed cause	Date	Claimed effect	Date	Holds
The exit needs a name	−1100	The lodger dies; the papers	−1100	Yes: the exit precedes the debt by a thousand days
The debt called in	−110	Decision	−110	Yes
The panel shown round	−70 to −40	Brad hears; acceleration	−40; 0	Yes
The ladder	−45	Violet's belief, the cage, the letters	−20 to −18	Yes
The key letter names the cage	14	Brad's first visit	16	Yes
First visit	16	The writing	17	Yes
Margo's file	51	Margo's silence	54	Yes
Margo sees the inconsistency	19	Margo's silence	19 to 60	Yes; the silence is hers from the first day and the spine says so (C5)
Margo's silence noticed	54	The vanish	60	Yes; the bag was placed on Day 46 under a plan ready since Day 30, so the trigger and the readiness are separately dated
Brad's vanish	60	Margo's guilt; the reading lands	61; 96	Yes
Contact	180	Meeting	214	Yes
Margo's death	214	Survivors go in	219	Yes
Front page	265	Ally	266	Yes
Panel aired	325	Panel burned; landlady looks	325 night; 326	Yes

Sweep verdict: PASS. No first-action date precedes its planned turn with a consequential outcome. Two thin locks: Margo Days 51 to 60; Ruby from Day 27. Both are open, computed and world-supplied. Both go to the attack first.

D. THE OBJECTS

D1. X, what Violet hid: the panel

A gilded alphabet panel. Oak, about 30 by 40 centimetres, black ground, twenty-six capitals and an ampersand in water gilding, a crack across one corner from the day the ceiling board came down, and a small maker's mark bottom right that is not a name: a monogram of the initials he lives under now. Made by Brad at Violet's bench on Tuesday nights over ten months, in a hand and at a standard he had never shown anyone in Havenbay, kept in the roof space over her racks because his flat and his van had to survive a search.

Why it is damning to the three and not only to Brad (finding 7). The panel is gilded lettering, and of the four people the letter is addressed to, exactly one gilds letters for a living. Violet's letter argued that it could not be his because it was better than he was; the three, holding Ruby's lie, Margo's cash and Liam's van question beside it, would not have followed her there. A crane driver, a nurse and an accountant cannot make it. That is the independent fact each of them holds, and it is why Brad could not leave it.

Why it says "prepared exit" only when combined. Alone it is a beautiful panel with a mark nobody knows. Beside the four's separate pieces it is one of the four making a name for himself somewhere else: Ruby's marathon told as a wedding (he lies about where he goes), Margo's pub books (he has been taking his income off paper for two years), Liam's question in the crane cab (he priced the van), and Violet's own expert judgement, which was wrong in the one way that matters: it is not Brad's hand, I taught him, he cannot do this. The genuine cage letter asked the four to pool everything odd they knew of one another. Pooled, the pieces name one man. That is why the letter had to go, and it is why the panel had to go with it: the mark on it is the mark he signs with now.

#	Constraint (v8)	Panel	Brush (Fable's seed)
1	Unique physical object, cannot be posted or copied	Yes: hand-gilded, one crack, one mark	Yes
2	Meaningless alone, damning beside what the four separately knew	Yes, as above	Fails: it is hers; nothing the four know makes it mean anything
3	Not the motive	Yes: the debt is the motive; the panel accelerates	Yes
4	Something Violet could plausibly have found	Yes: a leak, a ceiling board, a wrapped thing above her own racks	Fails: she made it; nothing was found
5	Something he wants	Yes: the best thing he has ever made, in the self he could not show, and she wrote that he could not have made it	Fails: he has no use for her brush
6	Innocuous in a stranger's house four hundred miles away	Yes: an alphabet thing on a lodger's wall; the mark is his own initials there	Yes, barely: an odd brush
7	Describable by Ally without holding it	Yes: she carried it round for a month asking whose hand; four people can describe it	Yes: from across the road

Verdict: the panel passes seven of seven. The brush passes four and fails 2, 4 and 5 as X. It also fails as the decoy (finding 1): she used it every day until she died, Liam saw it in her bucket on Day 2, and any decoy must be a thing none of the four can place after Day -19.

D2. The decoy: the name board

The transom name board off the first boat the yard lifted after Liam bought in, eight years ago. Liam gave it to Violet; she had lettered the boat herself years before; it hung on a hook in her hall. All four have seen it there. None of them had been inside her house between Day -19 and Day 0: her life with them happened at the unit and the slip (row 5b). Brad took it off the hook at 22:20 on Day 0 and carried it out under his arm. On Day 19 the four find it in the cage and assume she took it down when she hid the letter. Nobody can say otherwise, because nobody was there to see the hook. Only its meaning is his.

The false meaning, and the two truths it rides on. The forged letter says: Liam gave her this board the day he bought in and told her that day how he had paid; she hung it where she would see it every morning and remember she had said nothing; the money in her tin is his, every quarter since, for her silence. Two claims in that letter are verifiable and true, and both are things Violet told only Brad: Liam owns a third of the yard (row 5), and there is a tin (row 1, and the whole room saw it go to the sister on Day 5). Liam confirms the first on Day 27. From that day the letter has earned the right to be believed about the third claim, which is the lie.

Where it fails. Only on the money. Margo alone knows the tin came from Violet's mother's house (row 2). She has it in her own hand in her own file, Day -1450. Violet did not get her own money wrong. So the letter is not Violet's.

Why it cannot fail earlier or elsewhere. Liam can deny paying her and cannot prove a negative. The sister does not know where the cash came from. Ruby never knew of the tin. Brad wrote nothing else that any of them could test.

D3. The two cupboard letters, as claims

Claim	Genuine (Day -19), read only by Brad	Forged (Day 17), read by the four
Certainty	I think, and I may be wrong	I know, now
Grounds	The ladder bolt undone; a panel in a hand she cannot place, hidden in her roof; a mark	The ladder: she had told Liam which ladder. The yard. The tin. The board
Who	Nobody named. One line: it is not Brad's hand, I taught him, he cannot do this	Nobody named. Every line leans one way
The thing beside it	The panel: whose hand, whose mark	The name board: Liam's gift, the day he bought in
How it could be written		The debt book, taken on Day 0, is pages of her cursive; years of Tuesday-night practice, burned; her pen, her paper, her bench. The finding-2 ruling: he secretly has the talent
Instruction	Each of you write down everything odd you know of the other three from the last year, and read them together	Read this together, and be careful
Mentions Brad	Once, to clear him	Once, as the one she sent up the ladder, kindly
Retrospective tells		I know against I think; the letter kind to exactly one man; no panel, though four people in town saw her carrying one

D4. The motive, stated once

The money. Violet lent him the van and his start, cash, no paper, Day -2000, and on Day -110 told him she wanted it back for the lawyer. The exit was already built and the cash was already in it. From inside his head: a debt follows a man who moves; nobody chases a debt to a man who died; a man who dies off Kestrel Head needs a grief the whole city will accept; and Violet's death is the one grief that makes his own read true, seven weeks later, to everyone including the police. The panel is not why. It is why it was that month.

E. THE RULINGS (ALL EIGHT RULED,

STEPHEN, 2026-08-30)

Eight questions. Seven are v8's queue plus the camera question added at the closure check; the eighth was the spine's own. Each is shown as asked, with what the spine needed and what would have broken, followed by the ruling. Recorded in the bible as R19 to R26.

#	Ruling	Effect on the spine
1 (R19)	Accident stands; only new evidence of an act by a person reopens it	As written
2 (R20)	High-risk missing, presumed in the water; search stands down in days; DNA and prints taken from the home on day one or two and kept indefinitely	As written
3 (R21)	Family or a person with a financial interest, after years; nobody here has either	As written
4 (R22)	Routine: any material posthumous document is examined before it is acted on	As written; the examination on Days 230 to 250 needs no one to say forgery
5 (R23)	Her carrier records yes; the app confirms an account and retains no content and no contacts; no tower request without an alleged offence	As written; closes the closure check's PARTLY
6 (R24)	Same site and known association link the files; linked means read together, not reclassified	As written
7 (R25)	One camera at the car park entrance covering vehicles; none on the point or the path; a review pulls it and sees her car arrive alone	As written
8 (R26)	Not the dead infant. Brad lives under the genuine name of a man he killed three years before Violet, body never found, reported missing by his skipper, classified low risk, no sample (R16)	New node: the deckhand, the skipper, the constable. Rows added to A1, B1 (10a to 10d), B7 (R6, R6a, R6b), C2, C7, C8, C9, A5. v1.2 after finding 4: the deckhand lived aboard and the file names the boat, never Brad; and Brad's face is on no document under the name. Premise "Who Brad is" needs one line from Stephen

The questions as they were put:

1. What supports an accidental-fall finding on an unwitnessed death with head trauma, and what reopens it? The spine needs: a secure house, a single impact consistent with the stair, modest alcohol, and a GP-recorded fall six weeks earlier are enough for a coroner to record accident after a competent post-mortem; and reopening requires new evidence of an act by a person, not a document expressing fear, not a friend's suicide, not a second death elsewhere. If it goes the other way (a written allegation reopens it): the finding reopens on Day 222, the police are then running an open homicide with a document examination inside it, and Ally arrives into an active case rather than a closed one. The premise's "they find nothing" survives; "Ally comes to it afterwards" does not.

2. Missing-person status, search duration, and reference-sample practice when there is no body. The spine needs: a vehicle, a message and a smashed watch at a known site make him high-risk missing presumed in the water; the search stands down within days; a DNA reference and lifted prints are taken from the home on the first or second day and retained indefinitely against a future body; the file stays missing, not dead, with no petition. If it goes the other way (no sample is taken for a presumed suicide): Day 333 has nothing to match him against and identification needs family DNA or his own confession. Fixable but slower and it loses the line the premise is built to deliver.

3. Who can petition to have a missing man declared dead, and how fast? The spine needs: only family or a person with a financial interest, after a waiting period measured in years, and nobody in this story has either the standing or the wish. If it goes the other way (a friend can, and quickly): Ruby might, out of kindness, to close his affairs; a declaration puts his death on paper and adds nothing to Brad's safety or danger. Cosmetic.

4. Is authentication of a material posthumous document routine, discretionary, or only on express dispute? The spine needs: any of the three. The letter is examined on Day 230 to 250 and passes as consistent with known samples on the same paper stock, because he was taught by her and wrote at her bench with her pen. The spine still needs to know which, because it decides whether the examination happens at Day 222 without anyone saying forgery (routine), or only because a detective chose to (discretionary), or not at all unless Margo's line is read as a dispute (on-dispute). If on-dispute: the examination may never happen, the file carries an unexamined letter, and Ally's later claim of forgery is untested rather than tested and wrong. Weaker, not fatal.

5. What does a last-movements review reach on an apparent suicide when the device is lost: carrier records, app metadata, the prepaid connection? The spine needs: her own carrier records (cell-site, data sessions), reached on request; the app provider confirming an account and retaining no content and no contact list; and no tower request, because a tower dump is an investigative tool for an offence and there is no offence. If it goes the other way (a tower request is routine for a death at that site): an unregistered prepaid pings the same cell at 22:50 on Day 214, the review has a second phone at the point, and the death is no longer an uncomplicated suicide on Day 225. That is the finding the closure check left PARTLY, and it is this ruling.

6. Does a death at a known disappearance site automatically link the cases? The spine needs: yes, and Del links them on Day 215 by hand anyway; linking means the files are read together, it does not mean either death is reclassified. If it goes the other way (no link): Del reaches the survivors four days later, when they come in themselves. Cosmetic.

7. Camera coverage at the cliff and its approaches, and does a review pull it for an apparent suicide? The spine needs: one camera at the car park entrance covering vehicles, pulled for Margo, showing her car arrive at 22:50 and nobody on foot, because the coast path from the landward side does not pass it; no camera on the point. If it goes the other way (a camera on the path or the point): it shows two figures at 23:00 on Day 214, and the spine fails at Day 218. If the review does not pull it at all: the tape expires Day 246 unwatched and the same nothing results, more cheaply. The spine wants it pulled, because a competent review that finds her alone is stronger than one that never looked.

8. Identity documents: can a man build a usable second identity without an accomplice, in Havenbay's world? As asked, the spine proposed a dead infant's birth record with no cross-check at issue. Stephen asked for the other routes (a synthetic identity from nothing; a living person's identity taken; an unidentified dead person's name under R16; a lawful name change, which fails because the record links it to him; bought papers, which fail because a seller is an accomplice) and ruled a sixth: a missing man's genuine identity that Brad knows will never be used again, because Brad killed him. No seller, no register, no victim who can surface, and the file that holds the name is low risk in Del's own precinct under R16. It costs a prior, and it makes "the plan came first" literal.

Also decided here without a ruling, and flagged as geography rather than process: Kestrel Head as the cliff, at the end of Kestrel Road beyond the lighthouse. It is a naming, and it costs an exterior the art system does not yet have.

F. PRE-FLIGHT: THE THIRTEEN OBJECTIONS

#	Objection	Answer	Result
1	Why was the decisive material not found at the time?	Because it did not exist where anyone looked: the panel left in a rucksack on Day 60, the genuine letter was ash on Day 17, and the one fact that breaks the forgery was a promise Violet made Margo keep. Nobody was lazy: the scene, the PM, the search, the sample, the examination and the review all ran.	Pass
2	Does the antagonist act in his own interest at every point?	Part C2: every action is coherent with what he wants, including the two compulsions, which are priced in B7.	Pass
3	Would a real person do the small thing this needs?	Violet carries a panel round asking whose hand: she ranked handwriting out loud. Margo sits in the car until the hour. Ruby keeps the boxes. Tessa screenshots one strange line. Liam hands the tin over. Each is from the five.	Pass
4	Is the motive one an ordinary reader accepts?	He owed her money he had already spent on leaving, and she had started asking for it.	Pass
5	Is any discovery a coincidence wearing a coat?	The leak is the one accident in the spine and it is upstream of everything; the fishmonger, the platform woman and the landlady are found by asking, on air, in a serialised programme whose whole engine is that strangers answer. The landlady is a lodger's landlady, not a stranger who happened past.	Pass, with the leak flagged for the attack
6	Does a reader with no context understand every word?	Cage, panel, name board, tin, ladder, cliff, train. "Gilding" needs one line. No procedure near the hook.	Pass
7	Can a reader hold the cast on one pass?	Violet, then four names, then Del and Ally. Tessa and the landlady arrive one at a time and late. The solicitor, sister, fishmonger, clerk, café owner, skipper and lodger are functions with no names; the lodger's name is heard once, on Day 333, as the name Brad was arrested under.	Pass
8	Is it clear what the crime is, immediately?	A woman died on her stairs and her four friends were sent keys. Two of them are alive and afraid of each other.	Pass
9	Can Ally source everything she says she knows?	Part B6, rows 54 to 64. Nothing comes from the file.	Pass
10	Does anything break its own rules?	Tips to Del never on air (rows 57, 60, 61, 63). The Tip Line keeps no metadata. All-party consent: Ally records nobody covertly. The letter is a letter, not a recording.	Pass
11	If the premise claims a route is the ONLY one, find the second route in the ledger.	The premise claims no wall. Every route to Del is open from Day 14 and each is computed in Part C to produce a note on a closed file. The second route to Brad is the download map (row 61), which gives a town and not a house, and it is used.	Pass
12	Is the stake a body, freedom, family, identity or present danger?	Three bodies, a man's freedom, and a woman four hundred miles away who has told nobody but Ally.	Pass
13	Does anything decisive rest on a small number?	No. Ten minutes early is character, not evidence. Nothing turns on a time or a sum.	Pass
+	Is the antagonist a person or a mechanism?	A man who was the pet of the room for seven years and was cleverer than all of them, who built a self nobody was allowed to see, and who kept the one thing that proved it because she said he could not have made it.	Person

Score: 13 of 13, with objection 5's leak flagged for the step-3 attack.

G. WHAT FABLE MAY BE TOLD

The redacted brief for step 4. Paste this block and nothing else. It contains what Ally has on the day she starts and what the city knows. It does not contain which of the four, what was behind the door beyond what the survivors say, where anyone is, or anything from Parts A to F.

Brief for the opening of Episode One, titled The Friends with Four Keys.

You wrote the five as people. They are canon. Here is what happened to them, as Havenbay knows it, and what Ally holds on the morning she decides to make the episode.

The public account. Violet Moore, 44, signwriter, died at the foot of her own stairs on a Monday night about nine months ago. Head injury. Police attended, there was a post-mortem, a coroner recorded an accident. She had four close friends: Liam Bryce, Ruby Walker, Margo Rivera, Brad Collins. Two weeks after she died, each of them got a key in the post with a letter in her hand. The letter said she thought one of the four was planning to kill her, that she did not know which and might be wrong, that they were not to go to the police and why, and that what she had found was behind a door only the four of them could open. They went together on the Saturday. Behind the door was a second letter in her hand, longer, that said she knew, and a thing of hers beside it. The survivors will not say what the thing was, only that it was hers.

They worked the letter for weeks at Ruby's kitchen table. Seven weeks after the funeral Brad drove to Kestrel Head at night, left his phone on the seat with one message on it, and was never found. His watch was on the rocks. Police searched and stood down. Five months after that Margo Rivera's car was found in the same car park, ten minutes before eleven on the dashboard clock, and her body came into the harbour three days later. Police reviewed it and called it what it looked like: a woman who had blamed herself for the friend who went off the same cliff. She had a partner two hours up the coast that none of them knew about.

Liam and Ruby each went to the police within the week. Not to accuse. To say: I am frightened of him. I am frightened of her. The police looked, properly, for six weeks: the letters were examined and are hers, the solicitor confirmed she lodged them three weeks before she died, the coroner's finding stands, nothing was found. No further action. Ruby talked to the Gazette. The front page has the four of them at the wake.

What Ally holds on day one. The paper. A sergeant she trusts saying: we looked, properly, there's nothing. Ruby willing to talk. Liam not, yet. A Tip Line that has had nothing on this. No relationship to either survivor; she has never met them.

What the opening must do. Get the death and the keys inside the first forty-five seconds. Land on two living people taking each other apart in public over a dead woman's letter, and a podcaster who was not there for any of it. Under 330 words. Ally asks on microphone before she records anyone. Nothing in her voice claims to know what the police could not find.

Do not invent: which of the four; what the thing behind the door was; what the second letter said beyond that it said she knew and pointed, over weeks, at Liam; anything about where anyone is now; any procedure. If the opening needs a fact not in this brief, leave a gap and mark it.

No em dashes.

End of brief. Everything above this line stays in this file.